WASHINGTON, DC—Representative Steve Driehaus today welcomed an announcement by the Department of Transportation (DOT) of a $213,750 award to Cincinnati West Airport in Harrison. This funding will be used to install an automated weather observing station (AWOS III) and improve the apron and T-hangar taxiways.

“This investment will help enhance safety for pilots and improve the infrastructure of Cincinnati West Airport. These measures are critical to ensure the airport up to necessary standards and is a smart investment in Harrison,” said Rep. Driehaus.

This project will be carried out under the guidance of Cincinnati State Technical and Community College. According to the DOT, the new weather system will increase safety precautions for pilots by providing accurate local weather updates and will extend the lifetime of pavement on two taxiways.
